THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 28, 1858. WAX FIGURES VS SHAKESPEARE

A showman, named Ward, recently adoriginal and fercible essay on the superiority of an exhibition of wax figures over the performance of Shakespeare's plays. Here

"I'm travellin with a tent which is better nor hirin halls. My show consists of a serions of wax works, a panetamy called a Grand Movin Diarea of the War in the Crymear, comic songs and the Cangaroo, which last little cuss continues to conduct himself in the most outregeous style. I started out with the idea of making my show a grate Moral Entertainement, but i'm compelled to sware so much at that air infernal Cangeron that i'm afraid this desine will be flustrated to some extent. And while speaking of morality remines me that sum folks turn up their noses at shows like mine, sayin they is low and not fit to be patron zed by people of high degree. Sure I maintian that this is unternal nonsense. I mantain that wax figures is more elevation than all the plays ever wro-

ten. Take Shakespeer for instance. People think he's grate things, but I contend he is quite the reverse to the contrary. What sort of sense is there to King Leer who goes round cussin his darters, chawin bay and throwing straws at folk, and larfin like a silly old koot and makin a ass of himself ginerally? -There's Mrs. Macbeth, she is a nice kind of women to have, sin't she, a puttin old Mae, ber bushand, up to slaying Duneun with a cheese knife, while he is payin a friendly visit daggers--i'le let his bowls out," or words to that effeck - I say this is all strictly proper, I spoze? That Jack Fawlstaf is likewise a a immoral old cuss, take him how ye may; and Himlit is as crazy as a loon. There's Richard Thurd-people think he is grate things, but I look upon him in the lite of a monster. He kills everybody he takes a noshun to, in cold blood, and then goes to sleep in his tent. Bimeby he wakes up and yells for a hoss, so he can go orf and kill sum more people. If he is not a fit specimen for the gallies then I should like to know ware yu find um? Thare's Iergo who is more ornery nor pizun. See how shameful he treated Otheller, makin him for to bealeve his wife was tu thick with Casheo. Observe how Irego got Casheo drunk as a biled owl on corn whiskey in order to carry out his sneskin desines. See how he works mister Otheller's feelings up up so that he goze and makes poor Desdemony swatter a piller which causes her detb. But I must stop. At some future time I shall continue my remarks on the drammer, in which I show the vast superiority of was figures, snaix and other fixins in mont," the beautiful farm house of Benjamin Lillard, esq , the brother of the deceased Saila Lillard, so well known as a merchant in Natchez, and as a planter in the Parish of Concordia. His farm is near the Laurel Mills, Rappahannock County, in a vale between two celebrated mountains, one called Castle mountain, and the other Battle mountain. There is a legend that giants, in early times lived on Castle mountain, and as they were represented to have been taller than the majestic trees, they doubtless were unable to hide themselves, and thus may have been exterminated by their enemies, as none of them appear to have survived the dubious and misty age of tradition.

There, away down in that seeluded and mountain-guarded valley, lives, Mr. Lillard, with all the independence of a good old Virginia farmer, "all of the olden time." In that vale of pleasantness, near the base of the mountains, which serves as a back-ground to the picture, a conical hill is planted down like one-half of a sphere or a ball. On this stands the farm house, "Rosemont." Graded and flower crowned walks coviron this terrestial paradise. Near the base of the conical hill, on which is seated the family mansion, a noble spring, with a volume of water sufficient to turn a mill-wheel, leaps up fresh, cool and inexhaustible from the earth's deep beart. A revolving chain apparatus, moved by a windlass, at the mansion bouse, brings from the fountain the brimming bucket, which had gone down without any power except its own momentum-all in a moment of time.

On Resement the cereal crops and the grasses are most abundant, corn being the only exception, which looks, to a Southern eve, as it it should be tenderly housed for the winter to take an additional growth the next year. Perhaps the seed was of the two year variety .- Corr. of N. O. Delta.

CAPITAL OVER $450,000,
AND CONSTANTLY INCREASING.
The charter of this Company offers more in vorable advantages to the tarmer and others, than any other company chartered in the State by insuring with or without a premium note-If the applicant prefer, he can pay the full amount of the premium in cash, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured sales one eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay: or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the insured saves hear, one half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is the advantage resulting from the combination of THE CASH AND MUTUAL PRINCIPLE.

This company commenced issuing Policies against loss or damage by fire, on the loth March, 1854, since which time over five than sand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over thirty thousand dollars have been paid for losses. Having trebled our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the ifieral patronage estowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering prospects of future usefulness. The Directors hope and believe that by prinlers caution and a rigid system of economy, they will establish for this Company a reputation for cheapness and salety, not surpassed by any Company in the U. States,

All differences in settlement of losses, may be determined by three disinterested aromators of the County where such loss happened to be mutually chosen by the insured and the Company.
